A lady who was Mrs. McKinley's school mistress in her childhood, is an applicant for appointment postmistress in a Pennsylvania town. It is safe to say if she loved her pupils she will win the coveted appointment.

LYMAN J. GAGE has been set down by some of the Democratic newspapers as a Democrat. This is an error.
Mr. G. voted for Cleveland in 1894, but soon got sorry for it and said he would never again depart from his early faith. With this exception he has always been a staunch Republican.

It now develops that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons bill is to be brought off in Nevada, the legislature of which state is legislating to that end.
The small population and general lack of conspiracy on the part of this week among the states entitles it to election to a territorial condition. It is now about to furnish an additional reason for such a proceeding.

A. Illustrating the unusual severity of the cold in the South during the past week, Capt. John Campbell, captain of a gulf vessel, was frozen to death five miles from Mobile, Ala., while on his way to his vessel, Tuesday night. The fruit and vegetable crops of Florida, as far south as 200 miles below Jacksonville, are destroyed. The prestige of Florida as an orange growing state is forever gone.

SENATOR DUBOIS, of Idaho, was one of the "brave" men who took a walk when the sound money plank was nailed into the Republican platform at St. Louis. He has just received his reward in an ignominious defeat for re-election to the senate, at the hands of the men he sought to serve and who praised him for his bravery. Fred Dubois apparently the 248th anniversary of the death of a martyr in the person of Charles the First of England, should shake the dust of America from their shoes and take up their residences within the borders of Spain or Russia, the only civilized countries where the principles of this one of England's most despotic and worthless rulers, prevail. The idea is un-American and unworthy the enlightenment of the Nineteenth century.

JAMES W. BRADLEY, of Maine, is 35 years of age and until November, 1896, had steadily voted the Democratic ticket. But he was great enough to rise above a record of almost seventy-five years and vote for Mr. McKinley, on an issue involving the honor of the nation. Mr.
Bradley was elected to the United States Senate fifty years ago, and served one term. A Maine newspaper has dubbed him the "Grand Old Man," and he has assuredly earned the appellation.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND has been nominated by a Democratic paper for governor of the state of New Jersey, in the election of next year. The little state of New Jersey, it is believed, cast too heavy a Republican vote to admit of the ex-president's becoming a candidate, even should he be disposed to emulate the example of James Monroe and John Quincy Adams, in accepting an office of lower grade after yielding to his successor in the White House.
Even Mr. Cleveland would be slaughtered in New Jersey.

THE introductory biographical sketch of Mr. Bryan, in his new book, is written by Mrs. Bryan.
Mrs. Bryan admits that the first time she saw her future husband she did not approve of his prominent nose or wide mouth, which some one she knew said made him capable of "whispering in his own ear." Mr.
Bryan's mouth is certainly capable of doing all the service required of it, though it is not believed he is much given to whispering either to himself or others. He is evidently partial to the sound of his vocal organs.

THE want of provident forethought among western farmers is shown by a statement that comes from South Dakota to the effect that more than 1,000 head of horses and cattle have starved to death since the recent snows. Instead of cutting and putting up the prairie hay for winter use, which could be done at trifling expense, the farmers depended on their stock picking their living through the winter from the nutritious dead grasses. Of course when they were covered with snow the stock could only starve.

THAT it should be necessary to extend financial relief to the agriculturalists of one of the oldest states of the Union on account of the destruction of crops by deer seems at least a little strange. But this the legislature of Maine has just been called upon to do. Surely the New England sportsman can be induced to come to the relief of the Pine Tree State against so attractive a species game. If they will organize a drive and send them out this way our farmers will undertake to save the crops from their ravages.

SPAIN has a population of 19,000,- 000. Of this number nearly one half have no occupation by which to gain a livelihood. They are "idle and gentlemen," who are supported by the taxation of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands. Nearly one third the entire population are unable to read and write. A little over one-fifth are engaged in agriculture, and about one in 200 is a beggar. This is the country from whose clutches Cuba is making a noble effort to get free. It is safe to say at least a part of that 8,000,000 idlers will have to seek means of earning a livelihood in the future as they will probably have neither Cuba nor the Philippines to draw upon.

OUR morning contemporary grows lyric over the alleged bad condition of our state finances under Republican rule and cries the municipal disturbances at Louisville to further show the great misfortunes that attend our Republican successes at the polls. We have never heard that the financial record of the state under Democratic rule was anything to be proud of. It seems to us we heard something about a man who wore the affectionate sobriquet of "Honest Dick Tate." Possibly some people who happened to have dealings with the state prior to the advent of the present administration may remember something of the difficulties in the way of a prompt settlement of bills.
That in one short year, and that of panic and business depression, a Republican administration should change all this and present an overflowing treasury, would be simply to work wonders. Give us time to step from under the blighting influence of Democratic rule, which has sucked

COMPTROLLER ECKELS, of the United States treasury was before the House committee on banking and currency a day or so since and gave his views as to the causes of and remedies for the existing financial distress. The committee has under consideration a number of bills introduced with the design of giving relief, and Mr. Eckels was invited to give his views concerning these and the bearing they would have on the business disturbances. Mr. Eckels said that "while there was no doubt of the necessity for changes in the government financial system, Mr.
Eckels said, the public was disposed to attribute too much of the existing troubles to the lack of monetary legislation. Overtrade, overproduction and extravagance in private and public expenditures, partly induced by speculation, were largely responsible for the country's business difficulties.
The day had passed when the volume of money was its most important factor. Improved facilities for transportation and methods of exchange had lessened the importance of a large volume. Improved credit was more important. The first essential was the stability of public credit. The apparent reluctance of the people of the United States to redeem their public obligations was the cause of distress.
The currency redemption of the demand obligations of the government was the chief problem of the treasury. The funding and cancellation of these obligations so that maintenance of a gold reserve would be no longer necessary was the most desirable policy. Whether it was the most practical one was another question.
So far as the contraction of the currency was concerned, Mr. Eckels did not think it would follow gradual retirement of the greenbacks, provided credit was reasonably stable.
Banks would supply the needed currency, or gold would come from abroad. The pursuance of Secretary McCulloch's policy would have disposed of the question. Mr.
Eckels added:
"And a business man who constantly redeems his notes without retiring them and keeps them constantly out will come to a settling day that will break him. The chief feature of a banking bill would be to take from the government the issue of credit notes. The banks can do this."
Banks conducted on practical banking principles, instead of as speculative enterprises, Mr. Eckels said, could satisfy the currency needs of business. Before the war the banks had always furnished sufficient gold for business.
Mr. Eckels by virtue of the position he has occupied under the present administration as well as of the fact that he is an unusually bright and capable man is well qualified to speak to the subject, but when he alludes to the ante-bellum finances he must surely have temporarily lost sight of the monetary history of that period.

A LARGE MORTGAGE.
There has been filed for record in the various counties through which the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad passes an instrument of writing of immense magnitude and one whose results may be of not a little importance to Paducah. It is a mortgage comprised in a pamphlet of three pages of closely type-written matter, containing no less than 15,000 words. This mortgage is one of the largest ever recorded in the state of Illinois and its provisions are epitomized as follows:
1. Eight million dollars for purchasing or retiring the existing bonds of the railroad company acquired by its mortgages or deeds of trust, amounting to $8,000,000.
2. An additional amount of $18,- 000 per mile for every mile of single track, extensions and branches of said railroad, hereafter acquired by the railroad company, by construction or otherwise.
3. An additional amount of $7,- 000 per mile for every mile of said railroad, including branches and extensions, for additional equipment.
4. An additional amount of $8,- 000 per mile for every mile of double track (not meaning side tracks) hereafter acquired by the railroad company.
That the C. & E. I. is not providing this huge fund merely to meet existing obligations and mortgages is well known. As this road controls the Chicago, Paducah & Memphis, a proposed road that has long been talked of and that is now in operation as far as Marion, Ill., and as the mortgage expressly covers "extensions," it is inferred the C.
& E. I. is getting ready to extend the C. P. & M. to Paducah. As now operated the road cannot possibly be profitable. With the extension to Paducah it would be good property. All things considered it looks very much as if there is encouragement in this to expect the extension of this road during the coming season.

A Signal of Safety
As the well-known enables the mariner to avoid rocks and reefs and other dangers, so Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey enables the sufferer to avoid the dangers of a cough, cold, croup, whooping cough, etc., and to reach the land of safety.
It is a guaranteed cure for all these and other troubles, including asthma, bronchitis, etc., and is the only remedy that can be relied upon in all cases.
It is sold by all druggists and grocers.

BASE-BALL.

Records Of Former Players Of Paducah.

Prospects For the Future of the Game Here.

At last, Paducah and her rooters will be right in it the coming season, and will have any amount of baseball, and the writer rejoices over the fact that the newly proposed club already has splendid backing, which is a guarantee that the local friends, as well as our country cousins will witness baseball as it should be played, and as was done as far back as the seasons of '85 and '90.
Many cranks have wondered what has become of all the talent that composed the local club of the two seasons referred to. The writer will undertake to account for all of them as follows: Schlitzknecht, catcher, better known in Eugene parlance as "Lutz," after leaving this city played professionally two seasons with Bloomington, Ill., and one season with Milwaukee, and then retired with a splendid record to accept the superintendency of a large granite works in New Hampshire. Whitney Wells, the little old man pitcher, played three seasons with St. Paul and Minneapolis and two seasons with Milwaukee and retired with a glass arm in '91. Andy Kolley, first baseman, has since played with Vincennes, Terre Haute and Little Rock clubs, retired in '91; located with his family in St. Louis working at his trade, that of bricklayer, which apprenticeship he served under the guidance of our fellow townsman, Will Katterjohn, Jr. Will Dovey, second baseman, was given a trial by the Louisville in '86 and then fanned out to Fort Wayne and retired after playing a season with Hinghamton, N. Y. Shankie, third baseman, the star find of the season, developed into one of the finest pitchers (left handed) of the season of '86 in Rochester, N. Y., retired in '86 with the usual pitcher's weakness, glass arm. Will Kolley, shortstop, better known as "Home Run Bill" is still with us and in business, corner Second and Broadway, wholesale manufacturer of cigars, and says he will have his good eye on the ball the coming season, and proposes to lead them all in home runs as in days of yore and will in all probability throw third base. He is only 38 and gay as a bat.

Emory Volght, left fielder, had the misfortune to have his face smashed in '86, which necessitated his retiring from the diamond, and is now interested in a tow boat named Kentuckian.

Jack Wentz, center fielder, has played second base for various clubs in the Texas League, and the coming season will wear a Syracuse (N. Y.) uniform.
William Lyden, better known as "Fudge," right fielder and change pitcher, secured a lucrative position on the Louisville police force. He served in that capacity until 1892, when he died of that dread disease, consumption.

Last, but not least, the two notable baseball encyclopedias must not be overlooked, as they were deeply involved (on the financial side of the enterprise) and they are none other than Bona Jackson and Barney Briggs; the former has been with us ever since, and is now weighing in the neighborhood of 280 pounds, dispensing liquids at Ron.
San Grodon's. The latter went with Hennessey Bros., wholesale whiskies, to Louisville, in 1889, and is now secretary and the largest stockholder in the Louisville League club, and was tendered the presidency, but would not accept on account of business affairs.

Next week I will attempt to give an account of that great slugging team of 1890, which I know will interest all.

Clem Nance will tomorrow wrestle with George Robertson's bear to see which is the stronger. Quite a crowd will witness the sport.

Shanty Booter on Trial.
This afternoon M. Roth, the shanty booter, is on trial before Justice Winchester for failing to pay taxes. An attempt was made to quash the warrant, because the offense was charged to have been committed on January 23, '96, instead of '97. It was being argued at press time.

Pleuty of Fights—No Arrests.
There was an exciting fight yesterday afternoon in an east Court street saloon, and two more equally as bloody elsewhere, according to reports. A day or two since there was a fray at a saloon in another part of the city. The belligerents may be arrested next week.

NAUGHTY GIRL S.

They Don't Want To Leave Paducah.

Were Ordered to Get Out By Marshal Collin

The police are having no little trouble with Nuss and Ella Lesley, who figured notoriously in the murder of Ben Ladd at Brooklyn last May, and for which John Lesley was sentenced for 99 years, Bart Linn for 20 years and Ed Linn for 14 years.
The girls came to Paducah shortly afterwards, accompanied by Moll Edwards, another disreputable woman of the same place, and began running a dive. Her deas of dissipation and degradation were repeated in broken up, the last one, on North Tenth street, of which the Lesley girls were inmates, being expropriated only a few days ago.
The Lesley girls went to Broad street and settled, and the residents of the locality are very indignant.
Yesterday afternoon Officer Etter went up to give them orders to leave the community, but not knowing them they gave him fictitious names and informed him that no girls by that name lived up there.
This forenoon Officer Sutherland went up and escorted the damsels to the city hall, where they were given two hours to leave the city by Marshal Collin.

It is all the rage. What? Skating. Scott Hardware Co. have the skates.

Dr. W. S. Graves, of Dycusburg, is visiting relatives here.
Mr. R. S. Mills, of Metropolis, returned home this afternoon.

Mr. Thomas Marshall, the carriage drummer, went to St. Louis today.
Miss Hattie Sheppard went down to Fulton this afternoon on a visit.

Mr. W. Fred Long left at noon for Dycusburg on a visit to relatives.
Conductor J. H. Kirkland, of the N. C. & St. L., has returned from Little Rock and St. Louis.

Mr. J. C. Wood, a prominent farmer of Grahamville, is quite sick at the Commercial House.

Miss Julia Eaker has returned to her home in Bardwell, after a visit to her brother, Officer Frank Baker.

Miss Georgia Scott, of Dycusburg, Tenn., who has been the guest of Miss Alice Crumbrugh, returned home today.

Miss Georgia Scott returned this afternoon to her home in Dycusburg, Tenn., after a visit to Miss Alice Crumbrugh.

Smith West, formerly of the city, but recently of Bowling Green, passed through today en route to Kansas City, Mo.

Miss Hattie Bentley, a charming young lady of Marion, Ill., left for home this afternoon, after a visit to Miss Rosa McGinnis.

The Original Eighteen, Jr., met last night at the residence of Mr. Abram Weil, corner of Sixth and Madison streets, to meet little Miss Lizzie Dillman, of Mayfield. This social organization is the youngest in the city.

Before having any dental work done you can well afford to consult Dr. Fiddymont, who turns out the very best of work at reasonable prices. "All work done by the latest and most perfect methods." Opera House Block.

THEIR NERVY TRICK

Promptly Landed Them In The Big Jail.

Two Tramps Held Over For Breaking Into the Market Place.

Robt. Anderson and John Bronson, two itinerant steamboat men, who were held over by Judge Sanders this morning on a charge of breaking into the market house yesterday morning.

They claim to be respectfully from Louisville and Chicago, and were arrested by merchants' Police men. Fowler Loftin at Second and Jefferson streets. They had dropped some dressed meat stolen from Kelly's ice box in the market house, and claim that they found it in the alley contiguous to Robertson's grocery. The evidence was against them, and they were not introduced by their lawyer, Attorney Dan Cross. They were remanded to jail to await the action of the next grand jury.

MARRIAGE TOMORROW.

Of Mr. M. D. Sanders and Miss May Boyd.

Miss May Boyd, a well known young lady of Rowlandtown, and Mr. M. D. Sanders, a young tobacco man of the city, will be married tomorrow at the home of the bride.

...ous his par...
... out on the accommo...
... tomorrow must not forget that she leaves at 2:30 p. m. Instead of 4 p. m. as heretofore.

Lipskey Bros., of Memphis, who run branch stores in Somerville and Oakland, will also open one in Whiteville on Monday next, making three on the line.

Conductor Tudor gave the signal to go and away rolled train 108, John Hall feeling in the caboose as brakeman Menders let off the chains on the front end.

No one rejoices more than the railroad people over the breaking of the backbone of the cold snap, and their prayers are offered up that it may never knit together again.

It now develops that Engineer Ben Rodgers will fall heir to the 5 on south end through freight in instead of engine eye Gardner Sheppard from off the branch.

Engine 512, Gileon and Kane bowlers, bled her away with the last passenger train around on the old schedule. When she comes in she will be towing a train on the new card.

Speak Kane, the fireman, must expect to cut a wide swath on the lower division, judging from the weight of his Saratoga and portmanteau he carried south with him this a. m.

Conductor Lilly Beasles was on duty with Conductor Robertson yesterday, and the road will shortly be giving the high ball on this pike.

Switchman Perry had charge of the yard a portion of the day. He had the 315 waiting for a spell and then gave her a long "spot." That's the way the "red rag" never like to see it done.

Ellen Owens, the little five year old daughter of Mrs. Rosa Waynick, died at 2 o'clock this morning of droupy. The funeral takes place tomorrow afternoon; burial at O-K Grove.

Master Ross Craft, the sprightly carrier of the Sx on Route 4, gives better satisfaction than any of his predecessors. He gets around earlier and never fails to leave a paper. Ross is a son of the popular L. C. conductor, Howard E. Craft.

"Milage" is very anxious to secure half a dozen copies of "The Confederate Veteran" of the August, 1896, issue, and will pay 25 cents a copy. If left at the Sx's counting room or brought to him at Sixth and Norton streets.

Engineer Gus Gileon's face was beaming with smiles this morning; when asked the reason, he replied that he was a ton of coal about it. It seems that on yesterday his neighbor, Mr. J. W. Bailey, sent a load of coal home and the driver of the wagon took the ticket to Mrs. Bailey, who signed it, and told him to shovel it into the coal house. The driver made a mistake and unloaded it into Gus' coal shed; so Mrs. Bailey had to borrow coal of Mrs. Gileon until this morning, when the mistake was rectified.

Milage overheard a conversation between two old steamboatmen last evening after they had read his random in the Sx of yesterday relative to the "Davis Line" steamers. Being unknown to them he thought he would listen to their comments. One asked the other, "Who is C. L.?" The other replied that he did not know, but said that his reminiscences recalled to him many memories of incidents almost forgotten and tender recollections of friends who long since have passed to the unknown beyond. This is Milage's motive in writing up these old time incidents and before long will notice some of those persons they talked of while he listened to their chat.
